9) Only those provisions of the British Indian Act, which were necessary for control and regulation, have been adopted in Mysore in our Rubber Control Act of 1941.

10) Section 45 which was added to the British Indian Act in 1939 has not been incorporated in the Mysore Act. This section relates to suspension of the operation of all the provisions of the Act at the instance of the Government, except those relating to planting and export.

11) Under the amendment now under consideration, Section 45 is amended so as to permit of the suspension of all or any of the provisions of the Act not excluding those relating to planting or export.

12) If any amendment to our Act is necessary, it could only be by the incorporation of the entire section 45.

13) The International Agreement to which India is a party and to implement which the British Indian Act was passed, provide for a cultivable maximum acreage for the whole of India. In this respect, therefore, legislation in Mysore should follow British India, if rubber ~~growers~~ growers in Mysore should have the benefit of the International Agreement.

In case there is a suspension of any of the provisions of the British Indian Act, a correspondin suspension would become necessary in Mysore.

FINAL NOTE BY THE MINISTER FOR FINANCE AND REVENUE.

Subject:— The Mysore Rubber Control (Amendment) Bill.

49 With the gracious assent of His Highness, the Mysore Rubber Control Act, 1941, was passed in Mysore on the lines of the corresponding British Indian Act, in order to confer on holders of land in Mysore on which rubber can be grown, the benefits of the Inter Government Rubber Agreement of 1934 continued in 1939 to which the Government of India had also acceded.

50 Section 45 which was added to the British Indian Act in 1939 has not been incorporated in the Mysore Act. This section relates to the suspension of the operation of all the provisions of the Act at the instance of the Government except those relating to planting and export. But the amendment now made by the Government of India in Section 45 of the said Act, provides for the suspension either indefinitely or for a stated period, of all or any of the provisions of the principal Act not excluding those relating to planting or export.

51 If there should be such a suspension in British India, power should be available under the Mysore Act also for a similar suspension of the corresponding provisions of the Mysore Act. The present Bill seeks to give that power to Government.

52 The Dewan and the other Ministers are agreeable to the enactment of this measure as an emergency measure and I solicit the gracious assent of His Highness to promulgate the Bill.

THE MYSORE RUBBER CONTROL (Amendment) BILL.

Statement of Principles.

In Order to confer on holders of land in Mysore on which rubber can be grown, the benefits of the Inter Governmental Rubber Agreement of 1934 continued in 1939 to which the Government of India has also acceded, the Mysore Rubber Control Act, 1941 was passed in Mysore on the lines of the corresponding British Indian Act.

Section 45 of the British Indian Act as amended recently empowers the Government in certain circumstances to suspend either indefinitely or for a stated period all or any of the provisions of the principal Act. If there should be such a suspension in British India, power should be available under the Mysore Act also for a similar suspension of corresponding provisions of the Mysore Act since the two Acts are complementary to each other. The present Bill seeks to give that power to the Government.

THE MYSORE RUBBER CONTROL (Amendment) BILL.

Sir,

I beg to move that the Mysore Rubber Control (Amendment) Bill, published under Rule 36 of the Mysore Legislative Rules, be taken into consideration by the Council.

An Inter-Governmental Agreement between all rubber producing countries was reached in 1934, providing for the regulation of production and export of rubber and for control of extension of rubber cultivation. The Indian Rubber Control Act, 1934, was passed to implement this agreement. Under the scheme the cultivable maximum acreage for the whole of India was fixed. In order that the rubber grown in Mysore might also be taken into consideration under the scheme and in order that the benefit of any increase in the cultivable maximum acreage of rubber in India might also enure the cultivators in Mysore, the Mysore Rubber Control Act was passed in 1941. Under this Act, restrictions are imposed on the carrying out of new planting of rubber plants or replanting of them. The total area in respect of ~~each~~ which permission for new planting may be granted was also determinable by the Government.

As a result of the war, about seven out of nine countries producing rubber are now in the occupation of the enemy and there has been a corresponding shortage of rubber ~~production~~ available for the use of the Allied Nations. Section 45 of the Government of India Act as amended recently gives power to the Government of India to suspend all or any of the provisions of the ~~mm~~ main Act. In case of such suspension, the restrictions imposed by the principal Act would be removed. Cultivators in British India ~~th~~ would, thereafter, be able to carry ~~out~~ new planting ~~of rubber plant or~~ replanting or of rubber plants.

If, in such a situation, power is not available to the Government of Mysore to remove the restrictions imposed by the Mysore Act of 1941, this benefit of relaxed restrictions would not be available to the cultivator in Mysore, & ~~There~~ he would be prevented from increasing the production of rubber and would be bound ~~to the restrictions~~ by the restrictions of the principal Act at a time when in British India there would be an increase of rubber production.

The present Bill ~~has~~, therefore, ~~been brought forward in order~~ designed to empower the Government to suspend all or any of the provisions of the principal act. It is purely an enabling measure and action will be taken in co-operation with the Government of India, so that the benefits of a suspension of the restrictions, which ~~are~~ may be conferred in British India, would become available to Mysore also.

The general principles of this Bill were placed before the Assembly in June and were approved by that House. I am sure the Bill will meet with the approval of this House als

The Inter-Governmental Agreement of 1934 was intended to avoid over-production of rubber with a corresponding fall in prices and dislocation in the market. Its object was to restrict the production of rubber and to allot to each of the parties to the Agreement a certain quota. For instance, the total planted area to which the Agreement applied was deemed in the case of India to be 1,28,000 acres. Any increase in the acreage of new planting was to be on an agreed basis.

As a result of the war, most of the countries, who were parties to the Agreement, are under enemy occupation. There is an acute shortage of rubber manufacture. There may have to be, therefore, an increase in the production of rubber and the restrictions imposed by the Act will have to be relaxed.

Mr. C.NARAYANASWAMY NAIDU: Sir, I beg to move:

"That the Mysore Rubber Control (Amendment) Bill be passed".

THE MYSORE RUBBER CONTROL AMENDMENT BILL.

Sir, I beg to move that that the Mysore Rubber Control Amendment Bill published under Rule 36 of the Mysore Legislative Rules be taken into consideration by the Council.

The Mysore Rubber Control Act was passed in 1941 in order that the benefits of the inter-governmental rubber agreement to which the Government of India had acceded, might be available to holders of land in Mysore on which rubber was grown. This was modelled on the Indian Rubber Control Act 1934 as amended in 1940. The Act was intended to prohibit the further extension of rubber cultivation in conformity with the international scheme to implement which legislation was undertaken in British India and to give to holders of rubber producing land in Mysore the benefits of the agreement relating to transfer to Mysore from British India or another State or vice versa, of licences to plant rubber.

Under section 45 of the British Indian Act, the Central Government have been given power to suspend certain provisions of the Act ~~and~~ as well as to remove such suspension.

By Act ~~XX~~ XXII of 1942, the Government of India have again amended the Rubber Control Act. Under this amendment which touches only section 45, the Government are empowered to suspend not only all ~~or~~ but any of the provisions of the main Act.

From what I have stated above, members will see that legislation in Mysore is complementary to that in British Irdia. Under the International agreement to which I have referred ~~to~~, the cultivable maximum acreage for the whole of India has been fixed. In case, the Government of India suspend any of the provisions of their Act, it would become necessary for us to take similar action if the cultivators in Mysore should not suffer. As a result of the present war when the quantity of rubber available to Allied Nations has been considerably curtailed, it is conceivable that restrictions imposed by the principal Act may have to be relaxed in some way or other. If rubber cultivators in Mysore have to get benefits which are available to the cultivators in British India, Mysore will have to follow British India in the matter of relaxing restrictions.

The present Bill which has been drafted for this purpose is a purely enabling measure and under it there will be available for the Government power to relax restrictions imposed under the Act. The general principles of this Bill were placed before the Assembly in June, and were approved by that House.

I wd like to discuss this with the author of the above note

1) What are the benefits of the inter-state rubber agreement

KSH

2) How would our interests suffer - if the provisions are not

Legislative Council

Statement of Objects and Reasons.

In order to confer on holders of land in Mysore on which rubber can be grown, the benefits of the Inter-Governmental Rubber Agreement of 1934, continued in 1939, to which the Government of India has also acceded, the Mysore Rubber Control Act, 1941, was passed in Mysore on the lines of the corresponding British Indian Act.

Section 45 of the British Indian Act as amended recently empowers the Government in certain circumstances to suspend either indefinitely or for a stated period all or any of the provisions of the principal Act. If there should be such a suspension in British India, power should be available under the Mysore Act also for a similar suspension of corresponding provisions of the Mysore Act, since the two Acts are complementary to each other.

As the matter was urgent, an emergency measure was promulgated in February 1943, to give such a power to the Government.

It is considered necessary to continue these provisions for some more time and this Bill has therefore been brought forward.

ALLOTMENT OF QUOTA IN 1942

Owing to the ban on the export of raw rubber imposed by the Government of India only one allotment was made during 1942, viz., a provisional allotment of 70% of each estate's 1941 crop basis. The international allotment for 1942 was 120% of each country's basic quota. Major portion of the quota allotted to estates was written off at the end of the year.

LICENCES AND QUOTA TRANSFERS

The number of licences issued during 1942 was 660 and quota transfers during the year numbered 649.

IMPORTS OF BURMA RUBBER

Owing to the occupation of Burma by the Japanese there was no import of Burma rubber after the first few months of 1942. The actual import during 1942 was only 149 tons.

GENERAL

As a result of the discussions at the first Rubber Conference held in New Delhi on the 27th January 1942, the Rubber Stocks Control Order was issued as Notification No. 273 (1)-Tr. (IER)/42 (i) on the 20th February 1942 and the Rubber Control Order was issued as Notification No. 271 (1)-Tr. (IER)/42 on the 24th March 1942 which came into force on the 1st April 1942. A Rubber Control Committee, consisting of all the Members of the Indian Rubber Licensing Committee and Mr. C. P. Liston nominated by the Association of Rubber Manufacturers in India, was also set up.

The Government of India in their letter No. 271 (1)-Tr. (IER)/42 dated the 23rd May 1942 prohibited all exports of raw rubber from India.

In view of the increased demand for rubber the Government of India, after due consideration, withdrew all restrictions on the new planting of rubber in British India except the formality of applying for and obtaining a permit from the Indian Rubber Licensing Committee. The Governments of Cochin and Mysore also followed the example by withdrawing all restrictions regarding new planting. The Travancore Government issued the Travancore Rubber Planting Order, 1117, as Notification ROC No. 2568/42/Devpt. dated 30th June 1942 setting up a separate New Planting Committee for the purpose of issuing permits for new planting in Travancore. Under this Order applications for new planting should have reached the Committee before the 31st Karkadagam 1117 (16th August 1942) and no person should be permitted to plant more than 100 acres of land with rubber.

Replanting permits were issued only in special cases under clause 13 of the Rubber Control Order, 1942.

During the year under report the licence fee was reduced from 6 annas per 100 pounds to 2½ annas per 100 pounds and this rate of fee continued to be collected on all permits issued for the sale of rubber to manufacturers after the stoppage of all exports of raw rubber from India.

The second Rubber Conference was held in New Delhi on the 28th September 1942 and as a result of the discussions at the Conference the Rubber Control and Production Order 1942 was issued as Notification No. 269 (10)-Tr. (R)/42 dated the 23rd November 1942 and this Order was brought into force as from the date of its issue. Under this Order the Indian Rubber Production Board was set up and the Rubber Stocks Control Order and the Rubber Control Order mentioned above were cancelled. At the same time all provisions under Chapters II, III and IV of the Indian Rubber Control Act, 1934, except
